PACS SPRING 2016

Bring your lunch and join the discussion!

MARCH: Dr. Jeremy Rinker presents, “Relational Networks of Belief and Identity: Religion as a Cause for Positive Peace & Development.” What role does religious identity play in the construction, and maintenance, of positive peace? This talk aims to explore the complex relational development networks that religious communities foster and develop around shared identity.

APRIL: Dr. Thomas Matyók presents, “Conducting Public Diplomacy through International Student Exchange.” International student exchanges are a form of public, citizen diplomacy. From the start, exchanges have had a political dimension. Recognized early on was that exchanges could be employed to breakdown stereotypes leading to better a more detailed understanding of others. Exchange students span the gap that can exist between different political, cultural, and economic worlds.

www.pacs.uncg.edu

CO-SPONSORED WITH:

International & Global Studies