DAVID CAMPT, PH.D.
Wednesday, April 6 & Thursday, April 7

PUBLIC TALK:
Dialogue and Participatory Decision-Making about Difficult Topics in Moments of Significant Community, Cultural, and Organizational Change
Wednesday, April 6
11:30 am - 1:30 pm (lunch provided)
Alexander Room, Elliott University Center
Dr. David Campt is a civic engagement expert and meeting strategist who discusses lessons from his diverse experiences in creating meetings, conferences, and larger processes that are designed to maximize the inclusion of diverse voices in order to leverage collective brainpower. He will explore the methods, underlying principles, and necessary skills that are relevant not only for creating inclusive and better processes within UNCG but also relevant when we want to engage effectively and reciprocally with colleagues outside of UNCG via community-university partnerships.

WORKSHOP:
Strategically Planning for Inclusive Dialogue & Deliberation
Thursday, April 7
1:00 - 3:00 pm
Claxton Room, Elliott University Center
Registration Required
This interactive workshop is intended for UNCG faculty, staff, and community members who could benefit from revisiting current processes to address difficult issues, make decisions, or fashion organizational plans. This session will give participants a chance to explore new possibilities for the new ways that techniques in dialogue, deliberation, and group wisdom might improve current plans on the table. Registration is required as participants will be sent pre-workshop materials and requests.

For more information and registration details, visit our website at http://communityengagement.uncg.edu/2015-2016-speaker-series