Graduate Assistant Discount on University Health Insurance Coverage

If a master's level graduate assistant receives at least $6,000 in stipend money, is enrolled full-time (6 hours) in main campus courses, and has not opted out of the university coverage, they are given $279 per semester to be applied to the university coverage.

The grad school looks at all graduate assistants' files and automatically applies the $279, if the criteria is met (full-time and at least $6,000 stipend). The graduate assistant does not need to request the discount.