Dear Colleagues,

The following topics are addressed in this email:

1. Nominate faculty for HHS Research Awards by March 18
2. The Effective PI Toolkit (Canvas Resource) is now available
3. Grant submission timelines; alerting you to unusual pinch points
4. Next steps in HHS OOR Equity Audit
5. There will not be a call for HHS GRA proposals this year
6. Upcoming deadlines and events

Please let me know if you have questions or suggestions for future content.

Best,

Esther

1. Nominate faculty for HHS Research Awards by March 18

We have many talented scholars in HHS! Please consider nominating a colleague for the three Faculty Research Awards described below. Self-nominations are also welcome.

Research Excellence Awards recognize HHS faculty members for their outstanding research contributions. Each year, one tenured and one nontenured faculty member is recognized. Excellence may be demonstrated by the originality of work, a pattern of research productivity and the involvement of students in the research enterprise. The Junior Research Excellence Award is for an assistant or associate professor (tenure track or academic professional). The Senior Research Excellence Award is for a full professor (tenure track or academic professional) and is based on the nominee's career-long body of research. To nominate a faculty member for one of these awards, go to this site: https://uncg.infoready4.com/#/competitionDetail/1860102

The HHS Community Engaged Scholar Award recognizes and rewards a member of the faculty in HHS who demonstrates excellence in scholarly engagement with a community partner. Community engagement that benefits the University and a community partner, while demonstrating a clear connection to departmental, school or university mission is the focus of this award. To nominate a faculty member for this award, go to this site: https://uncg.infoready4.com/#/competitionDetail/1859868

Nominations for all three awards are due by Friday, March 18. The HHS Research Advisory Committee Serves as the selection committee for these awards.

2. The Effective PI Toolkit (Canvas Resource) is now available

I am delighted to announce that the Effective PI Toolkit is now available on Canvas. It contains a variety of information and resources geared towards helping PIs on externally funded awards to manage the administrative aspects of their projects more effectively, so they are free to focus on the research without distraction. This includes resources around building a research team, budgeting, authorship and publication, and much more. This is set up in a self-guided format so faculty can access all parts or only those that they are most interested in or find most useful.

Information about the toolkit will be permanently available on our website under the resources tab in the next few days. To gain access to the canvas site, please email our Post-Award Administrator, Hannah Hawks (hbwashbu@uncg.edu).

3. Grant submission timelines; alerting you to unusual pinch points
As always we encourage advance notification of grant submission plans as outlined in our Timeline for Effective Grant Submission. COVID has created unique time pressures as submitters and research administrators have experienced illnesses and lack of reliable childcare that have caused delays. Thus far, we have been able to accommodate/be flexible and successfully submit grants even when the timeline strayed from the initial plan, and we hope we can continue this record. We have worked hard to cross-train in our office so additional personnel can assist with pre-proposal functions in periods of peak demand. Verna remains our primary pre-award specialist, but on occasion, I will assign some PIs to work with Hannah or Lisa. I will notify PIs via email when this occurs. These decisions are based on staff workload, timing, need for specialized expertise, etc, but are never based on proposal amount. Finally, all contracts and grants are ultimately submitted by the Office of Sponsored Programs. They are currently short staffed because recently vacated positions have yet to be filled. Thus, it is more important than ever that we provide them ample time to review, finalize, and submit grants prior to the deadline. I am asking all PIs who are planning to submit grants to:

(1) alert us early to planned submissions
(2) be patient and understanding given the described pinch points
(3) please stick with deadlines in the timeline we provide about pre-award and statistical support, unless you are facing true emergencies
(4) make yourself available to whomever is assigned to your submission via phone and email to promote rapid communication about key issues
(5) notify us promptly if you are not going to submit as planned so we can divert more of our efforts to active applications.

4. Next steps in HHS OOR Equity Audit

Thank you to all who provided feedback on the priorities and possible strategies that emerged from the equity audit of our services via the town halls and anonymous survey. The working group will meet in the near future to synthesize the feedback and we will report out after that meeting.

5. There will not be a call for HHS GRA proposals this year

The HHS GRA program will be on temporary hiatus this year for the following reasons: (1) we just recently confirmed the available funds and this leaves limited time to solicit, receive, and review applications; and (2) concerns about the existing program emerged from the HHS OOR equity audit and we would like to take time to revise the program appropriately to address concerns. The limited pool of funds this year will be used to support GRA stipends at the discretion of Associate Dean Scott Ross who will share the plan for this year with graduate program directors.

Center for Women’s Health and Wellness

The Center for Women's Health and Wellness wanted to extend an invitation to a virtual Research Forum that we will be hosting this Spring semester! This event will take place on March 25th from 8am until 1pm over Zoom. All Faculty and Students are invited to register for this free event and are encouraged to submit an abstract with data that includes the health and wellness of girls and/or women that you would be willing to present. Abstracts must be submitted by March 4th to cwhw@uncg.edu. For more information on the abstract submission guidelines, please click here.

CFRN: Child and Family Research Network

Feb 23 3:00-4:30 PM: Science Talk: Communicating your science with the media, podconnecters, and others. We will have two experts who will help our research to shine when talking with folks about our work. Eden Bloss, Interim Senior Advisor to the Chancellor for External Communications, and Dave DeWitt, Feature News Editor from WUNC, North Carolina Public Radio, will provide us with tips, resources, and answer our questions.
RSVP here: https://forms.gle/SXwQeSiQ8USxV9f49

March 17, 12:30 – 2:00: Panel Discussion - Research and Teaching: When the classroom is the "lab". We will be joined by Provost Storrs as we discuss best practices and strategies to involve graduate and undergraduate students synergistically in all aspects of the research process - from designing studies to collecting data and writing up results!
ZOOM link: https://uncg.zoom.us/j/95279053271

April 11, 12:00- 1:30 PM: You got that grant! Now what? How to prepare for post-grant success. Come meet Chinaemeze "Kelsey" Okoro, UNCG Research Navigator, and CFRN faculty to talk all things post-grant. Learn how different folks on campus facilitate post-award activities and how to identify the supports that you need to make the first months of your grant a success.

CFRN Writing Group

Interested in setting aside time in your weekly calendar to write? Want to connect with other CFRN faculty to support each other and build community? Join our writing group! We have faculty from across the university and it has been wonderful to connect with folks and hear what they are working on.
Two meeting times this semester - join one or both! Wednesdays 1-4pm OR Thursdays 1-3pm.
Please email Gaby (glstein@uncg.edu) if you are interested in joining.
